Increase Your Blog Traffic To Over 10K Views Per Month

I'm so glad you decided to be a part of our community. We are a very supportive group of people dedicated to helping you build and grow your online business. We hope you would enjoy your stay with us.

This document is a compilation of all the traffic generation tips we have for you. Initially we sent a tip a day to entrepreneurs who signed up to our list, but some of them wanted their tips all in one place. They explained that there was difficulty in skimming through their inbox just to locate these tips. We agreed and decided to create this tiny ebook. Bare with us if this doesn't follow the standard ebook format. :D

There are two ways to driving traffic; paid and free methods. In this ebook, I'll focus on the free traffic methods.

Free doesn't exist. These so called "Free" methods cost time.

You've probably heard Pinterest is a traffic goldmine? Do not worry I won't teach you Pinterest in this series but if you are interested in learning how to use Pinterest to drive traffic to your website, send me an email to tanyi@blogtoolscorner.com and I will be happy to help you.

Tip Number 1

Create a Pinterest group board and name it whatever you like.

Invite as many people as you can to collaborate on the board. I usually use Facebook groups to invite contributors to my board.

Make sure to keep all emails in a safe place after you are done inviting people to your board, you will need it later on.

Make an effort to have at least 100 contributors on the board. Don't worry if you have zero followers at the beginning. This strategy is going to work

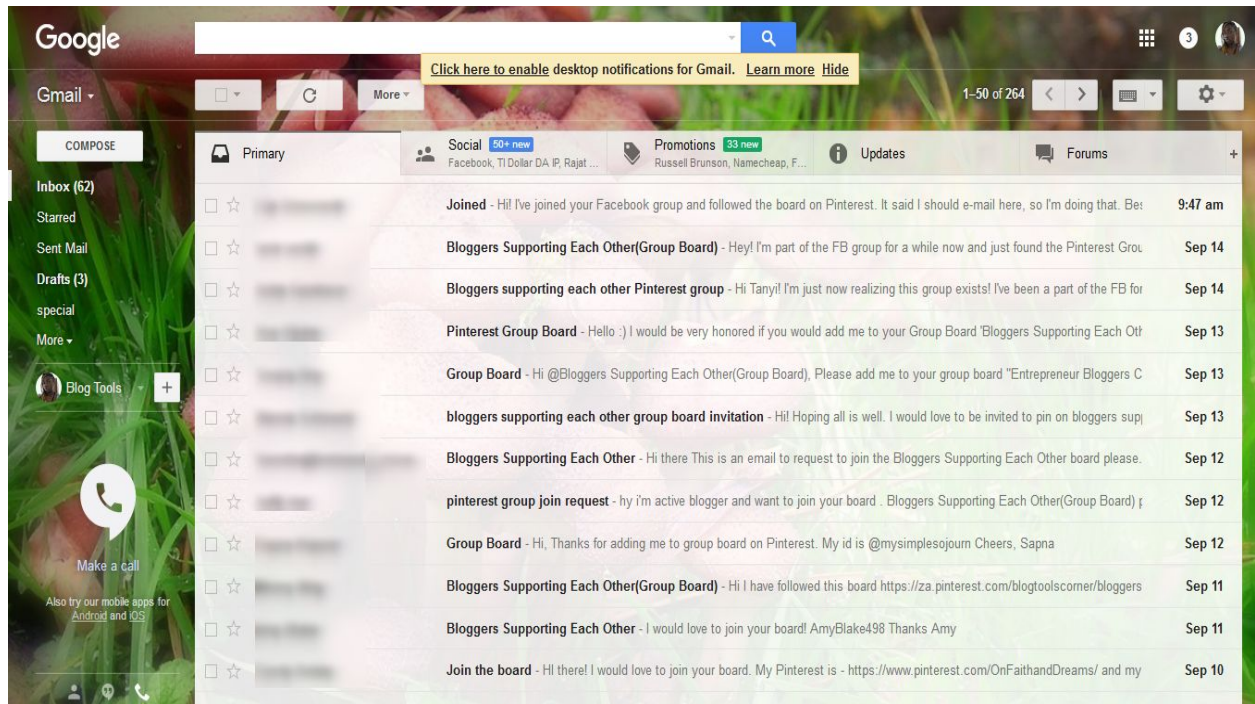

This is where the real traffic business begins. In the group board description area, put a link to your blog, and tell people that in order to join the group board they need to leave a comment on your blog and then send you an email to confirm before they can be added. You could put a lead capture link instead of a blog url. It all depends on your preferences.

For example, I put a link to my facebook group. The group has over 11k member at the time of writing this.

If you didn't understand something about what we have just discussed or need help creating and growing your group board, shoot me an email to tanyi@blogtoolscorner.com with subject "Pinterest group board help".

Below is a screenshot of just a small number of emails I've received just from one group board I created. Many contributors on the group board are in the facebook group as well because that was the condition for them to join.

Follow me on Pinterest and send me an email if you would like to join my group board. My pinterest account: www.pinterest.com/blogtoolscorner

Driving traffic to your website is one thing, turning those visitors into subscribers is another. Please make sure to establish good relationship with your subscribers to make sure they don't unsubscribe

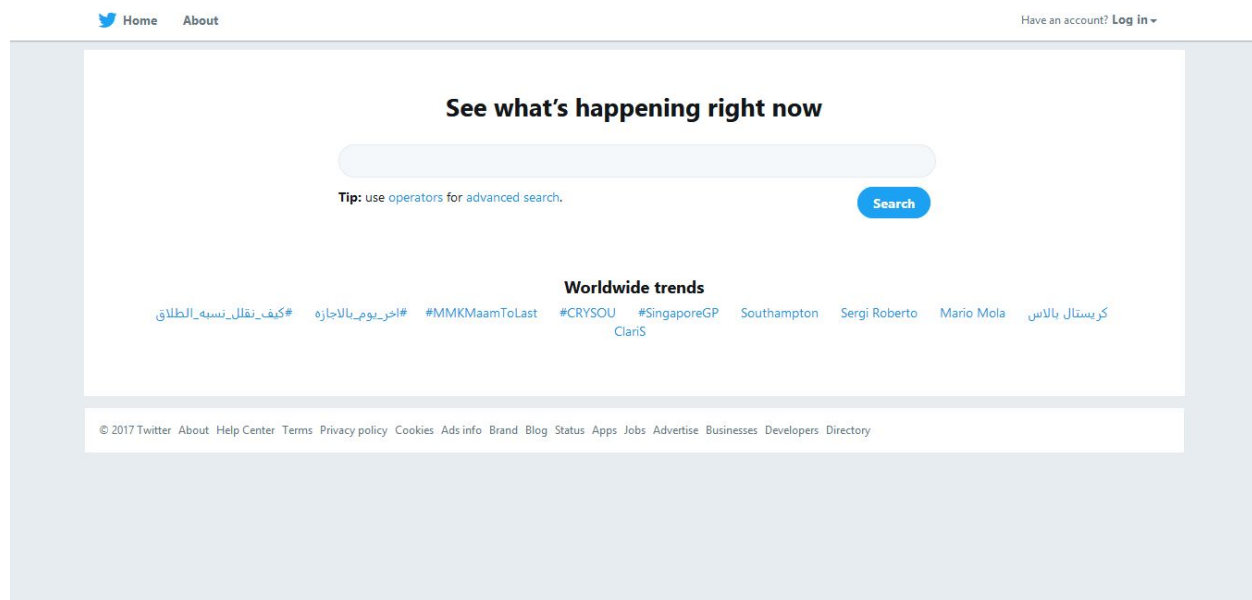

Ps: If you don't have time to create and grow your board, consider outsourcing it. Or you could use some tailwind help. Scheduling pins with tailwind will help people notice your group boards faster.

Tip Number 2

This method explains how to use the twitter advanced search feature to find content or people related to your niche.

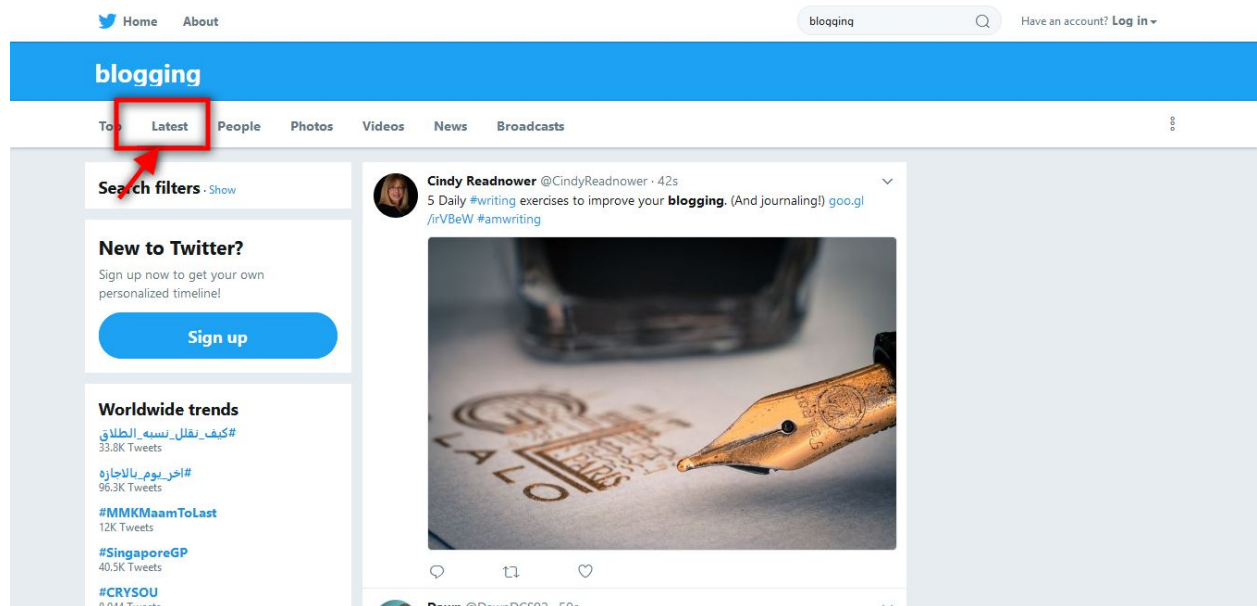

The first thing to do is to make sure there's a link to your website on your twitter profile.

Now head over to GOOGLE and type in the words "search.twitter" If you click on one of the google results, you should see a page like the one below. Enter the keyword related to your niche or an article and click on "search"

In my case, I've entered the keyword "blogging", and now I have a ton of results related to my searched keyword.

Follow all of these people. What will happen is, some of them will come back to check on your profile and click on the link to your website.

I prefer leaving comments on their tweets instead. People love it when you engage with their content. They'll definitely engage with yours too.

Tip Number 3

This method is about how to use google alerts to drive traffic back to your blog.

Google Alerts is a notification service, offered by the search engine company Google. The service sends emails to the user when it finds new results—such as web pages, newspaper articles or blogs.

Always find topics related to your niche to create alerts about. When you receive such emails, move over to the website or blog you have been alerted about and leave a relevant comment with a link back to your website. This not only gives you a good backlink, it also gives you a good amount of people clicking on your link. Trust me this works!!!

No amount of traffic is small traffic and if you keep doing this for some time you'll see a considerable amount of traffic start to build up.

To create an alert, head over to google alerts and enter the Search query, Result type, How often to alert you, How many alerts in a time period, and where to deliver to. Go to <https://www.google.com/alerts> to create your alerts.

Using Google Alerts With Quora

If you haven't started answering questions on quora, then you might be missing on a huge traffic source and quality backlinks for your website.

Getting traffic and attention on quora is very easy. Just answer as many questions as you can and watch your traffic go up. But it could be time consuming to stay on quora all day looking for questions to answer, that's where google alerts come in action.

To Create an alert from Quora

1. Visit Google Alerts.
2. In the "Create an alert about" box, enter the words you want to get email notifications for. Example site:quora.com "topic you are interested in"
3. Click Show options to say how often you get alerts, what types of results you want to get, and more.
4. Click Create Alert.

5. Once your alert is set up, you'll start getting emails any time someone asks or answers a question related to your niche on quora. Make sure to contribute in these conversations with a link back to your site.

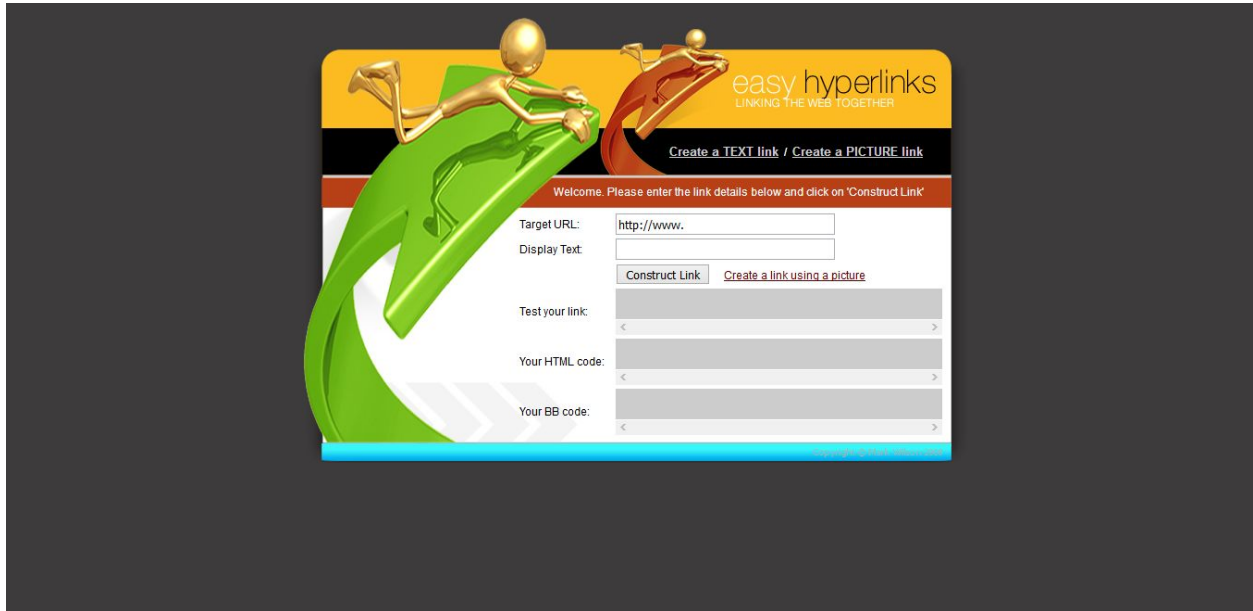

Tip Number 4

I'm not exactly sure if you know how to effectively use blog commenting to drive traffic to your blog. If so, yeah! If not then this tip will help you.

The mistake I see a lot of newbies make is commenting on any type of blog with a link back to their sites. While comment exchange threads help increase social proof, commenting on blogs that are not related to your niche might actually hurt your blog. You'll be getting low quality traffic that might increase bounce rate which will hurt your SEO.

To blog comment the right way, only choose blogs related to your niche and leave valuable comments with a link back to your site.

A tool such as easy hyperlinks can help you create hyperlinks with anchor text for blog commenting.

Tip Number 5

This method is definitely not new to you, but it's one of my favourite ways to get my page views up.

I think every blogger should have a stumbleupon account regardless of your social media site of choice.

Getting started with Stumbleupon is pretty easy. Read the article “Building Your Blog With StumbleUpon” by Skellie. This post has some good tips to driving traffic using stumbleupon.

Friendly Advice

Phew! I'm so happy you were able to take some time and read through this mini book. That's impressive. That means you really care about getting the quality traffic to your blog.

You are probably full of energy right now and all you want to do is implement all 5 tips. Sweet! But you've got to slow down.

I wrote all these tips so you'll pick one tip a month and implement, see what works better for you and stick with it. Implementing all five will be very overwhelming for you.

Recommendation: Make sure to set up your funnel first before trying to drive traffic to it. Driving traffic to a website without a funnel is like pouring water in a basket.
